

DISTRICT MEN AT MEADE GET PAID IN FULL

Amount Recently Held Out by Error Added to Regular Sum.

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

Camp Meade, Md., Nov. 3.—To the majority of the soldiers, the most interesting event connected with today's activities was the regular monthly visit to Capt. Eugene Foster, camp paymaster, who started the distribution of $1,500,000 among the uniformed population of the cantonment.

The majority of the District men will draw their first full month's pay from Uncle Sam, in addition an amount that was inadvertently left out of their envelopes in their first pay installment due to an error of the local boards.

There were football games, soccer matches, running events and athletic competitions of all kinds in the regular monthly visit to Capt. Eugene Foster, camp paymaster, who started the distribution of $1,500,000 among the uniformed population of the cantonment.

Just as soon as the various units are recruited up to their full strength and the men are all under the review of the first divisional review will be announced. It is expected that a big delegation from the District, including the Commissioners and the exemption boards will pay Camp Meade in a body and witness what the intensive training has accomplished for the men.

Night Maneuvers Planned.

Within a short time a series of night maneuvers, in line with the program of progressive field training, will be started, with detachments of 400 men each sent hiking across country under "sealed orders." It is the element of mystery and the prospect of meeting an unexpected enemy that makes the men enter into this work with zest and there will be no grumbling over the extra work, according to officers who have participated in these maneuvers.

The French officers who have come from "over there" to teach the American soldiers the fine points of modern warfare as it affects the trenching are Sergeant Albert Morin, of the Tenth Engineers, Sergeant Jean Courtin, who will direct his attention to the Signal Corps; Capt. Lantz, Lieut. Martin, and Sergeant Guy Le Breton, who is an expert in heavy artillery and the manipulation of the French "seventy-fives" and carries the cross of the legion of honor.

These French officers will institute practice also and instruct in the throwing of dummy hand grenades, filled with a harmless explosive. They express themselves as finding the American boys adept at learning the finer points of warfare.

Trench Digging Comes Next.

Work with the pick and shovel in the digging and building of trenches will begin in earnest for the District boys next week. All have become sufficiently hardened to be able to stand this work and are eager to get it completed and begin actual experience in the trenches.

The regular Saturday half holiday found 30 per cent of the Twelfth Machine Gun Battalion released on 12-hour leave for visits to relatives in Washington. Another big delegation will leave tomorrow.

Ambitious soldiers in the ranks are hard at work in the non-coms school and spend the greater part of their spare time in study to fit themselves for the examinations which will follow their registration for appointment as noncommissioned officers.

Some criticism has been directed at the rigid mentality tests, insanity tests and all others having anything to do with other than the physical condition of the men as "all non-sense" and carried on for the purpose of furnishing employment to a certain class of medical specialists.

These examinations are proceeding under the direction of Surgeon General Gorgas. Defending their effectiveness, one of the high medical officers in the army said: "It is undoubtedly true that of the 200 or 300 doctors engaged in this work not one has entered the service except at great financial sacrifice. He could have made twice to three times the money he has received from the government by attending to his private practice."

On Watch for Insanity.

"The diseases which have been sought out include mental defects, epilepsy, psychopathic personality and abnormal conditions of the central nervous system."

"According to dependable statistics three out of every thousand go insane at home during times of peace; six to seven out of 1,000 during war service at home, and an undetermined, though far greater, number when serving in a foreign land."

"There are many people who will inevitably break down under the strain, anxiety and horror of modern warfare. By keeping such men out of the army its strength is far greater. Fewer men will fall ill and much suffering will be saved."

"By such precautionary methods the army is now developing men of the highest professional efficiency and training, who, after the war is over, will go back to their civil employments far more competent generally than when they left."

FAIL TO FIND CLUE IN BANK ROBBERY

Mystery Still Shrouds $9,250 Loss from Franklin.

Mystery shrouds the probable darning theft of $9,250 Friday morning from the cash of the assistant cashier of the Franklin National Bank, Pennsylvania avenue and Tenth street northwest.

Inspector Grant, chief of detectives, and the four Central office men who have been assigned to the case, Detectives Kelly, O'Dea, Cornwell and Hughton, last night said that no clue had been obtained of the supposed thief.

The money disappeared sometime between 9:45 and 10:15 o'clock when the assistant cashier, John E. Benton, was absent from his cage.

It is stated by authorities that the money might have been taken by some experienced bank sneak. Inspector Grant stated that the money could have been pulled out of the cage by an outsider using a cane or a stick. The finding of a receipt slip inside the cage, which had been lying loose on the roll of bills confirmed this belief.

It was learned last night that a runner of the bank had been seen the package of money from the Treasury early the same morning that it was found missing from the inside of the cashier's cage.

Found, One Article Without a War Tax

A negro man had just been handed his marriage license at the court house yesterday morning. He passed $1.35 over to Clerk Coffin, acting in place of Col. Kroil.

"Why the extra quarter?" asked Mr. Coffin.

"Why dat is for de war tax, mister; didn't you know dat?"

"There is no war tax that I know of on marriage licenses," replied Mr. Coffin. "Therefore the license is still the same old price, $1."

"Dere mus' be some mistake, mister," answered the man, "cause how could dey miss such an impotent papah. Ah expected ter see a stamp on mah license, but now Ah kin tek dat quarter 'en pay meh on mah graphophone."

It's Here! First Case Under Sheppard Law

The first case under the Sheppard law, where real honest-to-goodness liquor has been sold, will come up in Police Court tomorrow when Harry A. White will be arraigned for selling, it is alleged by the police, three quarts of whisky at $3 a quart to some soldiers.

Detective Howes and Sergeant Bean arrested White Friday afternoon. There will be two charges against him. If the police carry out their intentions—one charge of selling liquor, in direct violation of the Sheppard law, and the other of selling liquor to soldiers in uniform. He is held under $1,500 bond under the two charges.

KERENSKY INTERVIEW TO BE ELUCIDATED

Gen. Alexieff Will Explain at Allied Conference in Paris.

There will be some Russian participation in the coming conference of the allies in Paris and Russia will abide by the decisions of that conference. But the Russian Embassy here admitted itself somewhat at sea yesterday over the personnel of Russia's delegates.

It is generally believed that Gen. Alexieff will represent Russian military authority and will tell the conference just what Premier Kerensky meant by his interview calling upon the other allies to take up the burden of the war at this time.

It had been expected that Foreign Minister Terestchenko would attend the conference and shed considerable light on the state of Russia's internal affairs as affecting the conduct of the war. His recent utterances, it is admitted, however, have made him so distasteful to the Russian radicals that his attendance at the conference will be impossible.

Washington Promised Warmer Weather

Emerging from a freezing spell Washington is promised a let-up in the chilling winds and the cutting frosts during the coming week. Gentle southerly winds will warm the cheeks of Washingtonians, according to the Weather Bureau, while slightly rising temperature will grant a respite from the cold air.

Washington overcasts will probably hang loosely until at least Wednesday when another chilling wind may sweep the city. Toward the latter part of the week, however, warmth will again probably prevail.

EXPLORER SENDS FOOD SHIPMENT TO NORTH POLE

Roald Amundsen Gets First
License from U. S. Exports Board.

"Permission is hereby granted to Roald Amundsen, of New York, to export two hundred and ninety-two cases five per cent more or less of foodstuffs from the United States to Roald Amundsen at North Pole."

This is the first license granted by the Exports Administrative Board. Capt. Amundsen's license carries several interesting features, in that these are the first things ever consigned to the North Pole as a fixed destination. Capt. Amundsen, who discovered the South Pole and was first navigator ever to pass through the Northwest Passage, has arranged the drift voyage across the Polar Sea tentatively beginning next summer.

He plans to take from five to six years in the journey, figuring that it will require the time to drift across the unexplored region from the west at the Bering Sea entrance, to the east, coming out probably around Greenland or Spitzbergen. He will carry a small crew, motor sledges, dogs, trained bears, aeroplanes and wireless equipment. He believes the drift will carry him close to the Pole and at the nearest point he will make a quick sledge journey or aeroplane trip to the pole and back.

A Co-operative Delivery

And Thereby Cut Delivery
Costs to the Minimum.

Store prices depend upon the store's operating expenses as well as the original cost price of the store merchandise.

The Council of National Defense estimates that private delivery service eventually costs the consumer from 2 to 4 per cent as the price he must pay on the merchandise so delivered. These Merchants, by means of a co-operative delivery, cut this cost to approximately ONE-HALF OF ONE PER CENT.
